BUTLER TWP — The Middle States Commission on Higher Education in Philadelphia on Nov. 17 affirmed the accreditation for Butler County Community College.

“This report from Middle States confirms the outstanding work that we are doing at BC3,” Nick Neupauer, BC3 president, said in a statement. “As an accredited institution, we are able to confer degrees, transfer credits to other colleges and universities, and award financial aid to our students. Without it, we couldn’t exist.”

The commission is a voluntary association dedicated to education quality assurance and improvement.

An on-site evaluation of BC3 is done every 10 years to ensure the college meets the commission’s standards.
